Teach Us To Pray – Virginia Annual Conference

The 231st session of the Virginia Annual Conference will convene in Hampton Virginia on the dates of June 22 – 24 Our Bishop, Young Jin Cho, wishes for this to be more than just another church business meeting. He desires that it will be a time of celebration, sharing and prayer during which those present will experience God's presence and grace, and that we will be encouraged and inspired to come back to our local churches and mission fields with joy and hope.

In pursuit of these goals we will study the Bible, led by Rev. Dr. Steve Harper, Emeritus Professor of Spiritual Formation and Wesley studies at the Florida campus of Asbury Theological Seminary. In addition, we will worship, sharing the sacraments and enjoying the preaching of Rev. Tom Berlin, Rev. Margaret Kutz, and some strange preacher from Annandale, VA that I have never heard of...

We will be represented by many in our congregation: Harry Day, Julie West, Elizabeth Moss, Wanda Warren and Kevin Sabo to name a few. They will prayerfully join with over a thousand others from across the Commonwealth to offer support to our common ministries: Mozambique, Brazil, Cambodia and Virginia. We will offer flood buckets, health and children's kits. We will celebrate the planting of new faith communities across the Conference and we will vote on our covenantal support necessary to extend the Methodist witness to Christ both here and around the world.

We will share the wonder of gathering for the spiritual grace of Christian conferencing upon our return so that you, too, may praise God for the way God is using the Methodist Church in our day and time.

KIM – Kids In Mission

In My Father's House

July 8-12, 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Children will have an opportunity to participate in local mission projects during the Kids in Mission (KIM) camp July 8-12, 6:30 – 8:30 p.m. The program is for rising 3rd through 7th graders (as of Sept. 30, 2012).

The theme of this year's KIM is "In My Father's House". There are many kinds of people in God's house. Some have plenty, some not enough. Some people need help and others can help. During "KIM - In our Father's House", we will follow Jesus by showing his love to others. We all have something to share.

Kids in Mission will give kids an opportunity to give back to the community with special projects that focus on mission and service – loving neighbor and serving others. The projects will take place at AUMC or off-site locations. This year's program includes Friday Fun Night!

Kids – come to KIM and learn if you can ...

- Finish the hunger obstacle course
- Live in a box
- Feed a family for a $1.50
- Win the Great Super Market Race
- Make enough sandwiches to feed hungry youth in the Annandale area
- Bring communion and greetings from our family to homebound members
- Make the perfectly toasted marshmallow over Friday night's celebration campfire
- Place every food item on the right shelf at the ACCA food pantry

Register children online at www.annandale-umc.org or in the church office. Forms are also available in the 3rd floor Parent Resource Area near room 310.

Parent volunteers are needed! For details contact Becki Stewart, bstewart@annandale-umc.org or Trish Bradley, tbradley@annandale-umc.org or call 703-256-8330.

Thy Kingdom Come

“Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven”

Dear friends,

Recently, I delivered a sermon titled “Thy Kingdom Come.” It was part of our Name that Sermon series in which worshippers submitted sermon ideas. The request was for a sermon on the kingdom of God.

The synonymous phrases “kingdom of God” and “kingdom of heaven” appear about 100 times in the New Testament, including 68 times in the Gospel of Matthew. The concept of the kingdom of God is a central aspect of Jesus’ ministry and teachings. Jesus exhorts, “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” In his most famous of sermons, the Sermon on the Mount, he promises “Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.” Jesus even teaches his disciples to pray, “Your kingdom come. Your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.”

The kingdom of God refers to God’s reign in the world as the power behind all that was, is, and is to be. In the New Testament, however, it becomes clear that Jesus is a different kind of king and God’s kingdom is a different kind of kingdom. This king does not lead with military might, but in meekness, gentleness, and humility. This is a king who comes in, not on a war horse, but on a donkey. Moreover, in the kingdom of God, the smallest seed grows to be the greatest of shrubs. In this kingdom, the stone that the builders rejected becomes the cornerstone. In this kingdom, those who want to be great must be willing to serve.

The kingdom of God is both present and future; it is at hand and it is to come. There is the impression that in the kingdom, God takes what is wrong with the world and makes it right. In the kingdom, the last will become first and the first will become last. In the kingdom, “let the weak say ‘I am strong;’ let the poor say ‘I am rich.’” The Kingdom of God points to a future in which God’s justice and peace will ultimately prevail. But what do we do until then?

As followers of Christ, we must live as dual citizens in this world and in the Kingdom of God. We live in various nations subject to their regulatory requirements and societal norms. But we have another king and we are subject to the ethical mandates of another kingdom. Paul says that we are ambassadors for Christ. Our task is to speak, act, and live in ways that cause God’s kingdom to come on earth as it is in heaven. When we give food to the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, welcome the stranger, promote equality for the marginalized, and pursue justice for the oppressed, we live in ways that allow God’s kingdom to come and God’s will to be done on earth as it is in heaven. Then “thy kingdom come” becomes more than a prayer; indeed, it becomes a calling and a way of life.
