Camp Highroad Service Retreat

On May 13 - 15, AUMC members will go on a weekend trip to Camp Highroad to help repair the camp, have fun, and connect with God in the beauty of nature. Camp Highroad, a United Methodist adventure camp in Middleburg, VA, has been providing Christian hospitality since 1949, creating a place for boy scout groups and Sunday School classes alike to experience the wonder of the outdoors.

AUMC selected the camp as one of our Lenten Mission Projects, purchasing supplies for a service retreat. There are projects for every skill level, and everyone is invited to join in and help out. Service activities will include painting, moving mulch, picking up fallen branches, hammering nails, and moving supplies, along with helping out in the kitchen. It's a great opportunity for parents to teach children the value of mission work: even the smallest hands can help carry sticks to clean up an area.

The trip will also have plenty of fun and games! There will be a Learning Hike for young children, where a Camp Highroad guide will teach about local plants and animals. A camp lake provides a perfect spot for canoeing. Thrill-seekers (6th grade and up) have a chance to try out rope courses high above the ground, ending with an 800-foot zipline. And of course there are plenty of beautiful trails for anyone wishing to explore the camp.

We end our time at Camp Highroad each year with an outdoors worship service, where communion will be served and a brief sermon will be provided by Rev. Eduardo Carrillo. This year, the camp trip falls on Pentecost, allowing us to celebrate the holiday amidst the light and the leaves.

Sign up for Camp Highroad by May 1 by contacting Mark Bradley at Bradleyfam@aol.com. The cost for the trip is $15 per night/per person, including meals. You are welcome to bring bedding and claim a bed in the lodge or to bring your own tent and camp out. For more information talk to Mark, Becki Stewart, Eduardo Carrillo or Trish Bradley.

From Mission to Missionary

Grace and peace in the name of our Savior!

As I write, I am still in the warm throes of Easter. We had a marvelous service. The music was transcendent (many thanks to Pat and the music department); there was great energy and passion; and the pews were full. I can hardly wait for worship the next Sunday. But...

I go forward with the full and certain knowledge that the pews will be less full. And that bothers me. Why? Glad you asked. Many of those who graced us with their presence were younger. They came with mom and dad or grandma. They were visiting or curious. They were experiencing the passion we had for something greater than ourselves. The passion of Jesus Christ.

There is nothing greater than that passion in history. As our Lenten guide John Ortberg described, Jesus' passion for the world was transformative; he literally changed almost every cultural convention one could name. Education, health care, family relationships. You name it, he reframed it in ways that have endured over the millennia. Passion: having a love for something so all encompassing that one would be willing to give it all, to die for it. The world was transformed all because Jesus had a passion for the world. We at AUMC have passion. That passion is lived out in several ways. We love God. We love neighbor. We serve the world. We feed children. We package food for areas in distress. We build and rebuild homes, hospitals and churches. We teach and we tutor. I delight in all that we do. But...

There are still those whom we will not see again until Mothers Day or Christmas. I don't know about you, but I have a burning passion for them as well. In my various readings on church and culture, one thing has become quite clear. The church is no longer the center of the universe. Persons hold views of the church and of church goes that is indifferent at best and hostile at worst. People who believe that they are spiritual (but not religious) seek independent means of moral direction. They are the current mission field.

In his book Last Call: From Serving Drinks to Serving Jesus (Louisville: John Knox Press, 2015), Jerry Herships describes his life journey which began in a religious household but got to a non-religious life of quiet desperation as he pursued his dreams of stardom in Los Angeles. One of the ways he sustained himself while he sought to become the next Johnny Carson was to tend bar. Even after he affirmed a call from God, went to seminary, and worked in a church, coming to church every Sunday morning was not his enduring passion. Like Jesus, he had a passion for the world. How he helped form a community of connection, authenticity, love and care I find instructive. He went from being on a mission to being a missionary. I recommend it to you as we look to the next frontier of engaging the world for Jesus Christ. I invite you to experience this passion. I believe it will be transformative.

Yours for a Vital Witness to Christ,

Clarence

Tim & Diane Jenkins are both originally from Missouri. They met in college at the University of Missouri. They have lived in Wichita Kansas, Grand Junction Colorado, and Billings Montana before coming to Virginia. Tim works for John Deere Company and covers Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina and Diane works with the Drug Enforcement Administration in the International Training Unit. While in Colorado, they developed a love for the outdoors. They enjoy running, hiking, and camping. They also love to travel and to spend time with family and friends. Tim likes to keep busy by working in the yard and doing projects around the house. Diane likes to read and write in her spare time. Both are already actively involved in the church. The CM Lenten Project, the Fantastic Food Race, has concluded. The winners are the children and families at Annandale Terrace Elementary who'll receive enough food for a weekend meal for the entire family. Totals for the teams: Red Team (H-M) collected the most with 121 items, Green Team (A-G) 111, Blue (N-S) 93, and Purple (T-Z) 84. Over 400 food items will go a long way to feed hungry children and their families in our local community. Thanks to everyone who brought food.

The Weekday Children's Programs was glad to join in the Children's Ministries' Lenten mission Fantastic Food Race. We collected nearly 200 items to add to their 400 for the backpack food program. The ELP, who was our Red Team, contributed the most with 80 items!
